Cats Eye NCAA Championship

by Jerry Cunningham

righam Young's triumphant teteers will enplane Thurs- morning for Corvalis, Ore., the Western Regional AA Tournament.

ne Cougars, wearing the line crown they snatched y from Utah and Denver, be the cinderella entrants he national tourney, a fa- ar role to Rocky Mountain esentatives.

Take Light Workouts

oach Stan Watts ran his npions through light drills Monday and will continue soft-touch workouts through Wednesday. Watts reports the Cougars are in fine shape, both physically and mentally.

Radio Stations KOVO in Provo and KSL, Salt Lake City, will broadcast the BYU games, the Friday night tussle against California tentatively slated for 10 p.m.

Watts Confident

Watts expressed confidence that the Brighams, a good road team, will make a creditable showing in the tournament. "If the boys are up, we stand a good chance of winning," said Watts.

California, the Pacific Coast Conference winner, has lost their first-string center, Asplund, who is ineligible for NCAA competition.

Good Replacement

However, the Golden Bears have a good replacement for Asplund in Joe Hagler, a 6-8 letterman who was pegged for the center slot before Asplund took over.

California, the class of the Pacific Coast this year, nosed out UCLA and will be the favorites in the regional tournament.

Should BYU get by the Bears they will face San Francisco, Idaho State of Hardin-Simmons. The "Russelless" Dons, last year's champions, will play the winner of the Idaho State vs. Hardin-Simmons game.

The Skyline will also be represented in the annual National Invitational Tournament in New York's Madison Square Garden. Second-place Utah will carry Skyline laurels against Memphis State in the NIT.

BYU alumni will sponsor a pep rally at 5 p.m. for Cougar rooters in the Regional NCAA tournament in Corvallis, Ore., Friday. The rally will be held in the Ball Room of the Memorial Student Union Building. Cougar alumni, students and friends will enjoy free refreshments.

The Cougars will carry an 18-8 record into the tournament, 11-3 in conference play.

Eligibility troubles have sorely plagued Idaho State which will have four men on the sidelines.

THE CHANGE of campus situations calls re-evaluation. A fresh look at the problem assroom cheating is timely. A realistic approach is needed.

Teachers! When giving exams, be specific. Do not begin passing out exams until your class is settled and exam conditions have been attained. Specify the exact moment when students may begin and when they are to stop. A short reminder might help to create an honorable atmosphere.

STUDENTS! Eliminate temptation for your neighbor by shielding your own paper. Crowded classrooms make it difficult to resist temptation or avoid suspicion. Try not to focus the attention of others on yourself by doing anything, no matter how harmless it appears to you, that might arouse suspicion.

And finally, an extract from the Honor Code which too few students know or follow. "Tapping a pencil is the traditional method of warning a person during an examination that his conduct is questionable. The next step is to stand and announce that cheating is going on in the classroom . . ."

All veterans who are going to register spring quarter must give a list of classes to the Veterans' Department on registration day in the fieldhouse. They are required to carry at least 14 hours credit for full-time pay.

A veteran who repeats a class which he took before going into the service, may be paid for it on G.I. now. However, if he has taken it once under the G.I. Bill, it cannot be counted in his total of 14 hours for the second time.

Weekly Papers Pledge $300 For Scholarships

Publishers of weekly newspapers in Utah have pledged more than $300 in scholarships for high school students to attend a spring publications workshop at Brigham Young University June 3 to 9.

Students will live on campus for the week while they study yearbook and newspaper publication methods. The course studied by the students during this time will help to prepare school correspondents for hometown newspapers.

Wayne M. Carle, journalism instructor at BYU, is director of the workshop.

Drama Of An 'Angel' Begins New Quarter

Registration-weary students can relax at one of four nights of drama next week following enrollment day.

"Angel in the Pawnshop," directed by Prof. Lael J. Woodbury, will begin a four-night run March 20 at 8:15 in Smith Auditorium.

Ticket reservations are being given at the Smith Information Booth. Students will receive tickets upon presentation of activity cards.

Short Hair Looks Just As Pretty As Long Hair If Proper Care Is Used In Rinsing, Setting

HOLLYWOOD, (INS)—Blonde or brunette, gentlemen prefer luxurious looking hair.

That's the opinion of Alfred Pagano who, with brothers Adolph and Eugene, owns and operates a swank Hollywood beauty shop.

"The most important thing about hair is its sheen and thickness," Pagano said. "It must look healthy and alive, not thin and wispy and chopped looking.

"Even short hair can be brushed and rich looking. Hair four feet long doesn't mean it's great—hair six inches long can be beautiful.

"One of greatest ways to get sheen is with a good water rinse. It's better to use one soaping and rinse for five minutes than 15 minutes of soaping, and just enough rinsing to get the soap out. It's the rinsing that adds polish to hair."

Pagano advised further:

"Try to keep metal curlers and metal rollers away from hair. It causes split ends. Men like soft hair, so when setting use larger curls and set it more often. Men don't like fuzzy hair, and anyway, too tight curlers will split and break hair.

"Use boar hair brushes if possible, and very large, hard rubber combs.

"If you want an extreme hairdo for a special occasion, remember it's a one night stand. You're going to have to set it all over the next day.

What's it like to be AN IBM SALESMAN?

Selling to management is perhaps the best training for management, and it's the reason Gene McGrew joined IBM. Today, he possesses a thorough practical Business Administration education, responsibility, an excellent income—all at age 27. Read about an unusual career.

You're Gene McGrew . . . high school footballer and class officer. You won a scholarship and went through Princeton in the top third of your class . . . managed varsity track . . . commanded an artillery battery in Korea . . . "When you put a lot of preparation into your career," Gene McGrew feels, "you should expect a lot of opportunity in return."

Meets IBM representative

Out of the Army in 1953, Gene met an IBM representative. It sounded like opportunity. A few interviews later, Gene was sure. Although sales was only one of the many jobs he felt he could handle, this kind of selling—(IBM machines are as much an idea as a product)—promised to occupy every talent he possessed. Besides, he's learned that "no other form of training produces so many top business managers."

Gene outlines programming test

Then began a 13 months' training program marked by merit salary increases. First—3 months' schooling and observing operations in Pittsburgh (Gene's hometown). Next—2 months' studying the applications of IBM's electronic data processing machines in business, science, government, and defense. Followed by 7 months' practical training in the field, with customer contact. Followed by IBM's famous course in selling methods. Finally, assignment to a sales territory near Pittsburgh, responsible for about 14 companies and their executives who used IBM equipment, and a dozen or so more who were logical prospects for it.

Makes first sale

Gene's first sale, to a bank, required thorough study; consultations; a written recommendation. The climax came, Gene remembers, when he submitted his analysis to the vice president and received that gentleman's signature.

Discussing customers installation

Gene's latest sale was to a large industrial corporation. He's now preparing this customer for the installation of an IBM electronic system designed to simplify financial procedure; inventory and other systems problems. At 27, Gene finds himself top man on an important account. He's educator, salesman, administrator.

How would Gene define selling?

"We feel the best way to sell is to be able to consult. The best way to consult is to know something of value your customer doesn't. IBM's 'something of value' is profit through automation."

Gene's thoughts on competition:

"The entire Office Machine Industry feels the lead pencil is the biggest competitor. You've no idea how many time-consuming clerical jobs can be mechanized, thus freeing people for important, creative jobs. IBM's success in the field is due to service, knowledge, 'know-how'."

Does Gene find his youth a handicap?

"It's what you know—not how old you are—that counts. I deal with executives twice my age on a basis of equality, because they respect my training and my business judgment."

Future wide open

"I'm getting married soon, and I was amazed to realize how much security IBM's growth (sales have doubled on the average every five years since 1930) and benefits represent. But I think my real security lies in the chance to use my own ability fully and freely. There are nearly 200 Branch Managerships, 15 District Managerships and executive positions in 5 other divisions ahead of me. IBM is introducing new machines, systems and concepts so fast that, every Monday, we have a 'new idea' meeting just to keep up."

IBM hopes this message will give you some idea of what it's like to be a salesman at IBM. There are equal opportunities for E.E.'s, I.E.'s, M.E.'s, physicists, mathematicians, and Liberal Arts majors in IBM's many divisions—Research, Product Development, Manufacturing Engineering, Sales and Technical Service. Why not drop in and discuss IBM with your Placement Director? He can supply our brochure and tell you when IBM will interview on your campus. Meanwhile, our Manager of College Relations, Mr. P. H. Bradley, will be happy to answer your questions. Write him at IBM, Room 590 Madison Ave., New York 22, N. Y.
